

Jamf: Support from startup to maturity

The MDM platform that grows with you

Organizations looking to implement a new Mobile Device Management (MDM) solution should take care to avoid two scenarios. First, you don't want to overpay for a solution that does more than you need. Second, you don't want to commit to a provider you'll end up outgrowing in a few years. Fortunately, Jamf can both meet you where you are and provide ongoing support as you scale up.

For companies looking for ease of use or to get up and running quickly, Jamf Now provides a simple, intuitive user experience for small and medium organizations. For companies looking to do more, Jamf Now also provides enhanced device management workflows, basic identity management or malware prevention.

Larger organizations with dedicated IT and potentially security departments often will want to start their MDM journey with Jamf Pro — the most trusted name for Apple MDM in the enterprise. And to go further, the comprehensive coverage of the Jamf Business plan helps you provide end users secure access to resources, manage your Apple ecosystem and guard Apple devices against threats.

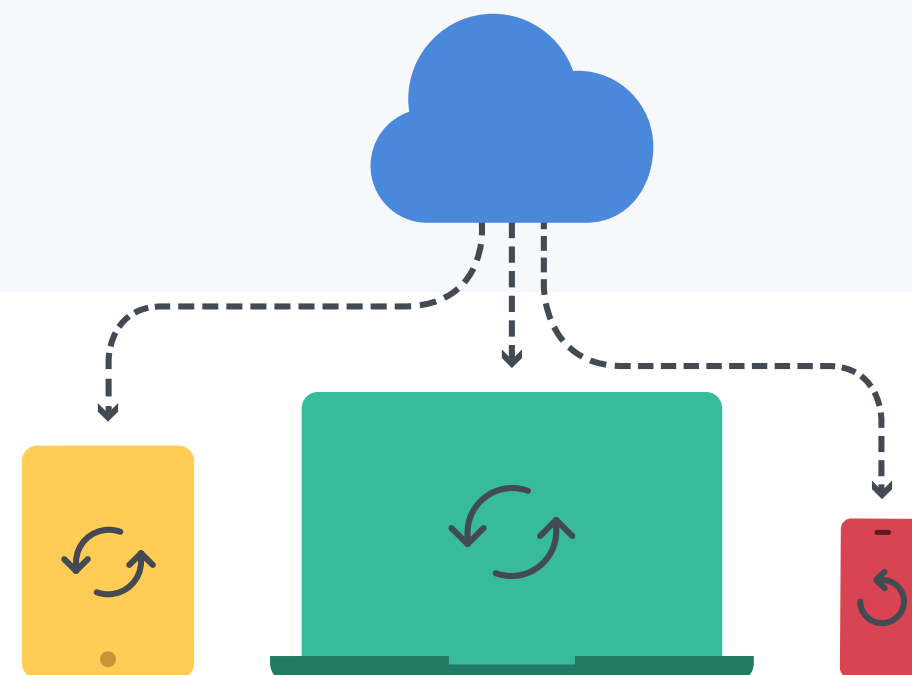

This table explains the unique benefits of different Jamf offerings to help pick which is right for you.

Jamf Now

Jamf Now helps you set up, manage and secure devices within minutes with effort-saving features like zero-touch deployment, enhanced management, core identity elements and cutting-edge security.

- Pre-built management templates and device and settings inventory

Low TCO and sustainable growth

Staying with Jamf solutions throughout your organization's life can yield significant total cost of ownership (TCO) benefits. While the monthly price of a competitor's basic MDM solution may sound attractive, you may find in time that you require additional features and functionality.

With Jamf Now you can meet the MDM needs and usability requirements of a typical small or medium business.

As you grow, your choice to stick with Jamf can translate into more robust features, advanced workflows, and substantial security and protection of your fleet, all with affordable pricing options and without service interruptions caused by switching to another provider. Jamf's integrations with your favorite business apps and other solutions will mean fewer disruptions as you upgrade from one Jamf solution to another. Committed customer success representatives and an active user community will help you to tailor your Jamf solutions to your individual, evolving needs.
